

At its meeting on April 24, 2012, the Economic Development Power Allocation Board adopted the following definition of “retail business” for purposes of the Recharge New York Power Program:

“a business that is primarily used in making retail sales of goods or services to customers who personally visit such facilities to obtain goods or services.”